

Laika the Spacedog – SONGS

Words by Tim Yealland

Music by Russell Hepplewhite

Baikonur

Baikonur Baikonur
The engines roar at Baikonur!
The engines roar at Baikonur!

Can you hear the sputnik's drone
As it's launched from the Cosmodrome?

The rocket breaks the cloud
Its boosters roaring loud
It floats on the edge of space

Baikonur Baikonur
The engines roar at Baikonur!

Mnemonic – planets

Moscow's Very Expensive Metro Just Seems
Useless Now (x2)

(Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars)
Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars

(Jupiter, Saturn)
Jupiter, Saturn

(Uranus, Neptune)
Uranus, Neptune

(x2)

Moscow's Very Expensive Metro Just Seems
Useless Now (x2)

The thing about science

The thing about science is this
It can open your eyes in surprise
At the mysteries under your nose
(Why did it all begin)
Why did it all begin
(Where did we all come from?)
Where did we all come from?
(How big was the bang)
How big was the bang
(From which it all sprang)
From which it all sprang
What makes the smell of a rose?

The thing about science is this:
It can fill your brain with wonder
At the mysteries under your skin:
(What makes your blood red)
What makes your blood red
(And why does your heart go boom?)
And why does your heart go boom?
(Can you try and count)
Can you try and count
(Such an amazing amount)
Such an amazing amount
Of atoms on the head of a pin?

The thing about science is this:
It can open your ears with amazement
At the mysteries outside your head:
(How loud is the grate)
How loud is the grate
(That a grasshopper makes?)
That a grasshopper makes?
(What makes the rain splash)
What makes the rain splash
Or the thunder crash
What can you hear from your bed?